

OhMiBod, The iPod® Powered Personal Pleasure Accessory
That Lets You Feel Your Music, Debuts at AVN® Adult Entertainment Expo 2007
Booth B830

January 2007 Greenland, NH... In the 1968 psychedelic sci-fi film 'Barbarella', Jane Fonda, as Barbarella, was pleased to the extreme by a special piano-like machine that created orgasms through musical vibrations. OhMiBod™ (www.OhMiBod.com), the first insertable vibrator to enable people to actually feel their music by translating tunes from iPods® into vibrations, makes this space-age fantasy a reality for the first time in history. Stop by the OhMiBod Booth B830 at the AVN® Adult Entertainment Expo 2007 to experience its power first hand.

Several thousand of the $69 U.S. units have been sold since OhMiBod's website went live just five months ago and the worldwide blogosphere embraced it. OhMiBod's broad acceptance highlights the demand for a mainstream vibrator and supports the company's belief that women desire sophisticated, approachable and easy-to-use personal pleasure products.

"We felt that linking OhMiBod to the iconic iPod® in both name and design would gain it a level of acceptance that vibrators have not previously enjoyed," says Suki, OhMiBod's creator, who worked in product marketing for Apple® Computer Inc. for many years. "We carried this idea of approachability through the entire development and design of OhMiBod - its name, packaging and website."

The buzz surrounding OhMiBod has caught resellers' attention. Currently it is being sold in 15 countries. OhMiBod has also just launched an affiliate program geared towards anyone who wishes to monetize their site traffic including bloggers, DJs, music sites, adult sites and more. If interested in becoming an OhMiBod reseller or affiliate, contact OhMiBod at reseller@ohmibod.com or affiliates@ohmibod.com.
